INTERPORT CRICKET.

Team Leaves To-morrow.

The time is fast approaching when Hongkong will undeavour to scenre the thonours in interport cricket against Shanghai, for the selected team leaves by the

P. and O. steamer Assaye for the northern part to-morrow. It was expected that they would leave to-night but as the mail was late in leaving Singapore and did not arrive here until this morning their departure has been somewhat delayed The selected team is as follows : W. C. D. Turner, captain ; A. E. Laming, A. A. Claxton, Lieut. Houghton, W. Edwards, R. O. Hutchison, Lieut. Home, Bandsman Barton, R. E. O. Bird, Corporal Sharpe, and A. W. J. Peake. Mr A. R. Lowe, who is at present in Shanghai, will umpire for Hongkong. Mr C. A. Carr, who has been so successful in lawn tonnis tournaments during the past season, has been selected to represent Hongkong in the single- while he will also be a partner to Captain Beasley, represent-ing this Colony, in the doubles. Hongkong sportsmen will wish them luck in both branches of sport.

THE RECENT TYPHOON IN CANTON

Canton has evidently learnt some lessons from the last great typhoon. There has has now been arranged a system of warnings, and, when a typheon is expected the message is sent on from Hongkong by wire The system worked well last week. The wind was about as strong in Canton as it was in Hongkong, but owing to the warning no very serious damage was wrought. In two separate villages several houses were, however, blown down, and in one instance more than ten persons were injured, being buried underneath the debris. Some large complimentary poles before a temple of the God of War were also blown down in one of the villages to the consternation of the olders of the place.

The Peking correspondent of the London and China Express writes that though the appointment of Sir Walter Hillich as Adviser to the Chinese Government has been THE Undersigned has received instruc tions to Sell by Public Auction, made some time now, yet there are very few Chinese officials who know it. Even the best informed Chinese papers in Pckthe 17th October, 1908, at 11 A.M., ing, Tientsin, and Shanghai are ill-informed respecting he appointment. Sir Walter will stand behind Prince Ching and President Yuan Shih-kai of the Wai-wuppu, DRESSS LENGTHS AND SUIT in giving them valuable advice in matters concerning China and foreign Powers, He will Feside in Peking and visit the ONE LOT OF SILK TRAMMINGS. Wai-wu-pu every morning to assist the Ministers to conduct affairs with foreign countries. Publicly he will not be responsible for anything. Some Chinese the 27th October, 1908, commencing at papers congratulate the Government on its 2.45 P.M., at his Residence, No. 1, decision to socure the services of such an able man, and refuse to listen to the VALUAB'LE HOUSEHOLI protests of ignorant conservative high officials, who proose the appointment of PLUSH COVERED ARMCHAIRS, CHERTERany foreigner as Advisor. They take HELD COUCH JAPANES LACQUERED SCREEN INLAID with Ivory, Brass FENDER and Fire the ground that it will lead to serious BRASSES, HAND-PAINTED ENGRAVINGS, diplomatic disputes with the Powers, and CANTON BLACKWOOD JARDINIERES, CABalso the administrative power of the EXTENSION DINING TABLE, MOROCCO Chinese Covernment will fall into the Covered-Diving Chars, Tear Sideboard hands of the Advisor. In order to stop with Bevelled Mirnor, Fire Screens, the mouths of these officials of the old MARBLE MANTEL CLOCK, &c., &c. "What Every Woman Knows," Mr J M. Barrie's new comedy, was produced a the Duke of York's Theatre during Sept in the presence of one of the mos As supplied to the principal distinguished audiences a London theatre has field for months. What is it that every woman knows! The secret was s well-kept, both before and during the play that not until the closing words of the las act did anybody know the explanation. Then the heroine blurted it out. " know," she said, "what every woman knows. They say that woman was made out of man's rib, but I know that she was made out of his fanny-hone." How the audience shricked in their delight. And when they shricked it meant that Mr Barrig's Scottish humour was understood and that this new play was going to be another Barrie success. The Wylies, a family consisting of a father, two sons and a daughter, sit in their Scottish home late at night waiting for a burglar who has been seen hanging about after dark for days. He breaks into their house, and i caught. But it is not their silver plate he is after. It is their books. He is a railway porter named John Shand, who tively as MARINE LOT No. 264 studies at the Varsity when he has the and MARINE LOT No. 265 Toge- time, and he has broken into the house of ther with the messuages thereon the Wylies after they have gone to bed in known as Nos. 22, 23, 24, 25, Praya, order to take advantage of their library, Annual Crown Rent payable in respect being too poor to lave one of his own of Marine Lot No. 264-$182.00, and in They make a bargain with him, these respect of Marine Lot No. 255-$208.00. Time passe and Maggie becomes the wife of John Shand, now an M.P. for Glasgow. .. H looks down on Maggie, of course-poor misunderstood, unappreciated Maggieand in the days when the ministry begin to appreciate his speeches turns to the aristocratic Lady Sybil for help and inspiration. Maggie knows that it is really she who has added what have become known as "Shandyisms" to his speeches, and she gives him two weeks with Lady Sybil to discover it. His speeches lose their point and their humour; he grows tired and bored and silly, and when ECPRICAL and Latest Improved she knows that he has discovered it she takes him back again, and cures him of his faithlesancse. Miss Hilda Trevelyan as Maggie, and Mr Gerald du Maurier as John Shand, scored tramendously,

THE TYPHOON

from bad to worse

Almost day after day for nearly three weeks the inhabitants of Hongkong have been in a stite of expectancy as to whether the Colony would again be visited by An interesting case was set down in another typhoon similar, if not more disastrous than that of July 27-28. Signals have been hoisted, in many cases all day, and several times they have warned residents and shipping that the centre of the typhoon was believed to be ess than three hundred miles distant from the Colony. Early yesterday morning the barometer began to fall and the black signals replaced the green lights displayed during the night, and this, together with a rapidly falling barometer all day, increased the anxiety felf by householders shipping and in fact all residents both is Hongkong and Kowloon. Here and there in the harbour a junk or two could be seen struggling against the high wind pain. Dr Upson has been anticipated by which prevailed, particularly in the afternoon; by which time nearly all the essay on cases of insanity due to diseased junks had sought shelter at Causeway teeth. A patient has been known to re- Bay. There were only a few launches too, on the water, while the larger shipping were ready, with steam up, to seek shelter in the event of the dreaded visit of a typhoon. The wind continued in force right throughout the day, and when darkness set in householders took every precaution by barring windows and fastening doors. ever, happily subsided as the night worden. Early this morning there was a strong North-east monsoon in the Formosa Channel and it is hardly probable that the typhoen will approach Hongkong, as experts regarding weather conditions think that the wind is blowing too strong and continuous for that.

All this forenoon the typhoon signals were displayed although the wind had become very much calmer and at 1 o'clock the signals were taken down.

Launch Ashore.

The steam tug Jolo, which left Hongkong last Thursday, encountered the full force of the typhoon and has been washed ashore near Shuiteng, about 150 miles to the South of Hongkong, having lest her anchors Happily all the crew are safe and Captain Groves who was in command had a most trying time and got ashore near Kwan Shui Wan. ## NEW SOLICITOR WELCOMED

The Attorney General, Hon Mr Rees Davies, K. C., moved at the Supreme Court to-day, before Mr H. H. Gompertz, (Acting Puisne Judge), that Mr W. E. L. Shenton be admitted to practice as a solicitor. In doing so, he stated that Mr Shenton had been articled to a Manchester firm of solictors for five years and was admitted a solicitor on the 1st May of this year. He had filed the necessary document. He came out here They then found that there was a sum to join the firm of Messrs Descon, Looker galo blew for a considerable time and and Deacon, and he (the Attorney General)

the Westminster. "Every Angle-Indian who is possessed of ordinary acumen approaches in absolute seriousness," he says, "the question as t whether the British Raj now sends his best, his very best, to India. I question whether the Englishman is quite as preeminent intellectually and morally, in any branch of work out here as he once was; but in one respect there is, I admit, considerable difference of opinion. This is the Army. You can find plenty of adverse criticism of the modern Indian Civil-Service, plenty of drastic denunciation of many representatives of the professions, mostly imported from home by the home authorities, and a good deal of head-shaking over the decadence of the commercial man; but as to the Army there is divergence of views.

must be more severe. This powerful close corporation, which possesses so many men of great ability, but which, while securing all the best offices, does not as a rule contribute most of the progressive machinery which can alone perpetuate the Government of India as it to-day-is assuredly not, as a whole, equal The above - named Vessel having in intellectual and moral qualities to the personnel of the past. It does not seem to draw the best men, and the extension of the age limit to twenty-three does not seem to have improved the type, although it has brought over rather more muried men-not, I am inclined to think,

> THE PROFESSIONAL CLASSES. As to the professional classes, people are still more caustic. I do not think that the standard of the Indian Bench is particularly high, and this, I am convinced, is almost solely due to the poor choice, as a rule, of mon sent out by the India Office. These criticisms are common to Europeans and natives. Neither is the European Bar well represented. One misses the coming men. The great geniuses are passing or have passed away, and few successors are in sight. I suppose there are better prospects at home for most beginners. The true tale is beginning to become widely known in England, that while the prizes here are as great as ever the competitionparticularly with the native-is necessarily keen, and the cost of living has enormously increased. Salaries may be large as compared with payments at home, but food is dear and rents are usually appallingly high, to 100 per cent, in the last twenty years. It was only natural that the spread of refail commerce should herald the event of Ducks.-A. the humbler business man. The big stores less instructions are given to the contrary are bringing in a new type to India, who little understands the native, and for whom, I fear, the native has scanter respect.

RECRUITMENT.

while the wages of servants have risen 50

Personally, I think the India Office will do well to pay increasing attention to Personnel. India is not getting the best men nowadays. Sometimes the reason for this is the inadequate nature of the rewards offered-for instance, the Minister of Commerce-is, perforce, at present a civilian, very able, it is true, but unversed in practicat affairs. It tells its own story when the Indian Government has vainly to hawk offices round business circles in Quall, Um-Chun England. Only the best men should be sent out to fill appointments in India, of no matter what kind. Scales of pay and expenses may have to be raised. One can-THE Co.'s Steamship Kumsang having not under a democracy have selection, but one may have a closer measure of supervision and a high standard of efficiency."

Witness added that Messrs Butterfield and wire did excellent work in building The 26 bouses in question were completed belove the 1906 typhoon, and withstood The walls blown down were built in accordance with the Ordinance then in force. If they had not been so, they would THE Steamship not have been massed. You said the thekness of walls was incrased by a subsequent Ordinance! Yes. That less nothing to do with these

Well, I can't make out why you men tioned it. It has nothing to do with my clients! No, further than that, in com mon with the other relitects, they opposed the proposition of other thickness of walls. I suppose, as a matter of fact, you mentioned it as an excess for the Covernment, not baying found out before that the walls were not thick enough be No.

In your evidence you spated that, in 1902 there was only one building inspector Don't you consider the Government of your Department culpable for having only one inspector to de the whole work of the Colony (- I certainly think it was impossible for one inspector to exercise any efficient supervision over the building opera. tions. I should hardly say it was culpable perhaps it was an error of judgment. Was it ever brought to the notice of the Governor or the Colonial Secretary'- I can't tell your price to my own occupation of the office I now hold. But after that I-After that it was, Was it pointed out that typhoons would occur in the Colony, that buildings would collapse, and that more competent supervisim should be had?- I did not represent FRHE Steamship it quite in that manner. I said the inspecting staff was inadequate, and should be Captain F. SEMBILL, (ready to load on increased. You say the Government, because they | the 20th instant, at 9 a.m. did not employ a sufficient number of . For Freight or Passage, apply to building inspectors, called on the architects. to do their work for them !- Not to do Government work, but their own wirk. What about the Ordinance, does it not become a farce !- I don't see it. Tee Ordinance says buildings should be inspected ?- The Ordinance certainly makes provision for inspection. D6 you think an architect inspecting these 26 houses notice every different hit of bonding and mertar?-I won't go so far

You don't expect an architect to sit, on the works and do nothing else but inspect s

Must an architect not rely to a great extent on the loyalty and bona fides of his foreman or overseer !- He ought to. "-Is not it extremely difficult to get good overseers?—It is very soldom you can pick them up locally: And is it not very difficult to get good - work out of Chinese contractors? It certainly involves a good deal of trouble, as a And, unless they are watched the whole time, they put but material into work ?-

It is extremely probable. When you found those buildings had collapsed, and found that Mr Tooker had granted a certificate, you saw that some expuse would have to be given for Mr . Tooker's conduct!-No_ Either the certificate ought to be given, or it ought not to be given ?- I presume that is a correct statement. Now, Sir, don't you think that that was properly huilt, but I think Mr Tooker was justified in giving the certificate. it was quite possible the wind was travel- Godowns. ling at 90 miles an hour in the typhoon of 27-28th July.

Mr.A. Denison, architect and engineer, stated that from the level of the first floor to the level of the second the wall was proporly bonded right through. The top floor also appeared to be properly bonded. On the verandah side the brickwork on the On Londonground floor was not quite so good, and there were five or six course without hending. Witness thought many of the cracks in the first party wall had been caused by the collapse. He thought the wind probably get into the houses by the front wall of 35 feet falling in. He did not consider this front wall would have fallen unless it had been blown down by the typhoon.

A juror :- W.uld it not be possible to obtain independent and expert evidence regarding the bonding of these walls? His Worship-It would be very hard to say in a case of this kind what would be independent evidence.

Mr F. B. L. Bowley submitted that the evidence of the Building Authority was absolutely independent. His Worship-What the juror means is that there are two contradictory statements and he would like to have a third, Mr Bowley-I should like to point out that the evidence given by the Building Authority's witnesses is really against their own interests because it lays them open to the obvious refort that it is their fault. The hearing was further adjourned.

The enquiry was resumed before Mr J. H. Remp and a jury, at the Magistracy, this afternoon. His Worship said it had been suggested to him, with regard to the suggestion the jury made at the end of last hearing, that an R.E. Officer might be asked to inspect the bonding of the wall. He also understood that photographs were being taken of the broken ands.

Mr Bowley-I am quite satisfied with the evidence that has been given His Worship-Personally, I don't intend to call any fresh evidence, of wait for these photographs.

Mr Gedge-I quite agree with your Susang, Benthuy. His Worship to Mr. Bowley-I think you should open.

Mr Bawley-I think the opening and the subsequent evidence sufficiently indicate the way the defect lies.

Mr Bowley said this was a case of extreme importance. The collapse occasioned the doubt of six persons and possibly endangered the lives of no less than 100. Mr Gedge referred to the "law on the question of culpable negligence, and contended that the jury would not be justified in bringing in such a rider. Hembmitted that the architect, Mr Tooker and every one else had done their duty. His worship, in samming up, said there were two things the jury had to direct death, and the second was whether anyone was guilty of gross negligenceamounting The case was not concluded when we their mind to-the first was the cause of
